

Endress+Hauser to supply Canadian process sector from Europe to minimize tariff effects

BURLINGTON, ON – Endress+Hauser announced it will supply the Canadian process sector with its industrial analysis and measurement instruments and other products directly from its production facilities in Europe to minimize tariff effects.

The family owned Endress+Hauser Group, headquartered in Reinach, Switzerland, has decided to temporarily shift fulfillment of any new orders from Canada that previously would have been produced in the United States to its production centres in Europe wherever possible.

“Our global supply chain and production network allows us to ensure minimal impact to our customers,” says Anthony Varga, General Manager of Endress+Hauser Canada.

“Our customers in Canada will not be impacted financially on their orders due to tariffs at this time. It is possible that there will be minor impacts to delivery time during this temporary shift.”

Endress+Hauser is closely monitoring and assessing impacts of news related to international trade, including, but not limited to tariffs between the United States and other countries.

Endress+Hauser is a world leading manufacturer of products and solutions, for various process industries, including flow, level, liquid analysis, optical analysis, pressure, temperature measurement, and digital plant communications.

About Endress+Hauser
